

Dik Geurts Oval Front Wood Burning Stove on Plateau

It's clear the Oval series of wood stoves by Dik Geurts distinguishes itself as one of the more refined designs of contemporary wood burners. Its unique oval shape gives you a view of the fire which is difficult to compete with, and with the contemporary pedestal base setup this stove really makes an impression.

The air controls slider allows you to easily control the intensity of the fire; and being a Dik Geurts, if you already know, you already know - but the responsiveness of the air controlled is second to none.

The dark anthracite vermiculite interior ensures optimal and clean combustion, and for those who do not want an air vent in the room, an optional external air feed kit is available, meaning the stove can still pull additional air from outside, without having to have an open vent in the room with potential to cause a draught. There is also an option available for new air-tight passive houses, whereby the stove is sealed and will only be able to pull air from outside - this option is logical only for sealed passive houses. For external air options please get in touch!

Please note - we include the plateau in our online price - purchasing the stove without this included means the stove cannot be mounted so we include it in the price to avoid any *confusion. It is also possible to have a bespoke size plinth / plateau made for you - please get in touch if you require custom sizing.
